ANGAT KAYUMANGGI YOUTH CAMP 2011 (AKYC 2011)

The AKYC is a four-day student leadership summit organized by the Ayala Young Leaders Alliance – Dumaguete City Chapter in partnership with Ayala Young Leaders Alliance – Cebu Chapter and Regional Federation 7 Junior Philippine Institute of Accountants and in participation of the local government units and private institutions in the Central Visayas Region that aims to:

- Build the confidence and hone the leadership skills of the young leaders
- Expose the potential leaders of the possible avenues of service
- Instil in their young minds the value of responsible and principled leadership
- Form them into individuals of nationalistic and idealistic perceptions and actions
- Encourage them to become faithful stewards of their communities and the country's future

The AKYC is one of the many fruits of the Ayala Young Leaders Congress, a concrete expression of the Ayala group's commitment to national development.

The Congress shall be participated in by 30 of the most outstanding student leaders in their junior year selected from the high schools across Region VII. It features lectures, outdoor activities, plenary sessions, and project management seminar. In the plenary sessions, Individuals who highly exemplify excellent academic performance and leadership skills share their own leadership stories and experiences and challenge participants' perspectives to foster growth and development. Also, speakers from the field of youth development and community advocacies share their visions for the community to enlighten the youth. Outdoor challenges develop a sense of self-efficacy, trust and teamwork among the participants and help build a community of learning that will be sustained after the congress. Project management seminar shall be conducted to give the young leaders a feel and a training of actual project management from conceptualization to planning and from execution to evaluation.

The program provides participants opportunities to network with their peers and develop bonds of mutual respect that will be sustained over the course of their lifetimes. Moreover, as they shall embark on their journey as college students a year after the congress, they shall make informed choices and decisions and even as they assume positions of responsibility in government, private, and the social sectors. Their shared commitment to integrity and national development will hopefully give rise to productive dialogue and cooperation. AKYC alumni are envisioned to become a collective and powerful catalyst for change and national renewal. The 2nd Angat Kayumanggi Youth Camp (AKYC 2011) will be held on 20-23 December 2011.
